A proposal by TermCoord (DGTrad - EP) for a terminology metasearch tool
What we can offer now…

A collection of glossaries

TermCoord

- COLLECTs glossaries in any specialised domain monitoring the web on a daily basis

- SELECTs the glossaries according to source, reliability and content
GlossaryLinks: our one-stop-shop for online glossaries in an array of domains!

Glossary Links is a glossary search tool with a database of more than 5,000 glossaries and constantly growing. All the links in the glossary search are regularly checked and updated by TermCoord in terms of relevancy and reliability.

You can find glossaries according to topics and by language. The glossaries cover a wide range of domains like, for example, legal affairs, environment, medicine, consumer protection, human rights, economy and many others.

Please note: Glossary Links just searches in the titles of the glossaries. In the ‘Source’ input field, you can search for the names of providers/creators of the glossaries.

Feedback: you can send us your feedback by clicking in the “feedback” icon below.

A collection of glossaries

Limits and frustrations:

• search by keyword works only in the titles of glossaries
• it doesn’t search for terms in each glossary
• too many clicks and time-consuming
• user is not sure to find the term in the listed glossaries
At TermCoord we like to dream big
And we are dreaming of converting in a real metasearch tool

That would search for a term in all the glossaries with just one click!
GlossarySearch will be fed by TermCoord with new glossaries collected from the web and selected according to source, reliability and content.
• Can be connected to any database

• Whenever…
  - either as an option
  - or automatically.

• It could also provide a list of candidate terms for interlinked databases
will make you happy
